International travellers are increasingly choosing Cambodia as their next business and tourist destination. If work from home can be away from home – here are your Cambodian choices

● RAFFLES HOTEL LE ROYAL

Phnom Penh's Le Royal has been a favorite haunt for luxury travelers and businessmen for nearly a century. Established in 1929, the hotel has hosted such luminaries as Charlie Chaplin, Jackie Kennedy Onassis, and W. Somerset Maugham. The property's architecture is a blend of Art Deco, French colonial styles, and traditional Khmer, and the five-star Restaraunt Le Royal offers its take on local and regional classics using the freshest Cambodian ingredients. The pool area offers guaranteed tranquility for even the busiest of business minds and the hotel's famed Elephant Bar pours the city's finest cocktails. With special business-traveler packages offering perks like garment press service and champagne breakfast, it's no wonder Le Royal maintains its world-class reputation.

● SOFITEL PHNOM PENH PHOKEETHRA

Sofitel's Phnom Penh location is a sanctuary of serenity on the Tonlé Bassac just south of Aeon Mall. The majestic colonial-inspired hotel has a lobby replete with nooks and crannies perfect for business meetings, five-star dining, and professionally mixed cocktails. But the lobby's star is its rare collection of photos showing scenes from Cambodia in the 1930s that, despite the vintage cars and clothes, look much like the Kingdom of today. One could stay inside the Sofitel without ever venturing out and enjoy the elegant décor, sprawling gardens, spa, gym, and exquisite service.

● COURTYARD SIEM REAP

A classic business hotel, the Courtyard Siem Reap by Marriott boasts seven event rooms and 2,800 square metres total of event space. Showcasing Khmer design flourishes throughout the property, the modern rooms and suites come replete with balconies and the range of amenities one expects from a Marriott. Perhaps the best - and most unexpected - design feature, though, is the observation deck on the rooftop, complete with numerous pairs of binoculars to take in truly unique views of the Angkor temples. Other ways to unwind and relax include a dip in the saltwater pool, a workout at the fitness centre or a massage at the hotel's Quan Spa.

● TREELINE URBAN RESORT

Located on Siem Reap's riverside, the Treeline Urban Resort offers modern luxury with a tasteful and minimalistic aesthetic that draws inspiration from the temples of nearby Angkor Wat. Offering a refuge for travelers, whether after a day wandering the temples or pursuing more business-driven activities, Treeline's Suri Spa uses the Asian massage tradition to soothe the tensest travelers. With all the modern conveniences available in their bright and spacious rooms and four dining areas serving a variety of local and Western cuisine – including the poolside Canopy Bar located on the roof – Treeline Urban Resort is a standout among Siem Reap's luxury accommodations.

● ROSEWOOD

Situated on the top 14 floors of Phnom Penh's iconic Vattanac Capital Tower, the Rosewood hotel offers breathtaking views of the city below, as well as some of the capital's most glamorous drinking and dining options. With exquisite attention to detail and five-star service, the hotel has quickly become a hit with the CEO crowd thanks to a variety of event spaces that are perfect for business conferences and corporate luncheons. A range of restaurants, a cafe and a popular outdoor bar overlooking the western parts of the capital round off the metropolitan flair of this prime addition to the capital's luxury hotel range.
